SATURDAY, DECEMBER 13, 1856.

SPAIN .- The question which now underlies every other in the current political affairs of Spain is said to be the question of bread. Already in some provinces the people have begun to die of want, and in others they are on the eve of revolt from the same cause. The amount of wheat in store is exceedingly limited, and, owing to the utter absence of rain for the last eight or ten months, there is no prospect of a new crop. Popular discontent is wide-spread and intense. The Government is attempting to stifle it by ascidenously distributing grain in the provinces most newly and desperate, but it remains to be seen whether or not the attempt will prove successful. It certainly will not without large importations of wheat from abroad, which, with a lean treasury and still leaner credit, is no very promising matter. So slender is the tenure by which the existing Spanish Government holds its position at the helm of affairs. The red currents of revolution are bounding fiercely in the veins of its subjects, and may at any moment burst forth in a tempest of bloodshed.

NEWS FROM NICARAGUA.-WALKER VICTORIOUS. The telegraph brings us later news from California and Nicaragua. The advices from California are not important, but those from Nicaragua are of great nent. Gen. Walker has defeated the combined forces of the Contral American States, and taken possession of Rivas, where he has established his headquarters. He has destroyed Granada, doubtless apprehending another outbreak on the part of the native population. Gen. Walker's loss was very small, while that of his enemies was very large. We have no doubt that Gen. Walker was very successful, yet we are inclined to think that there is a let the coalboats out that had started, but, as it had good deal of exaggeration in the account, and especially in the naval engagement, as the dispatch the river will probably rise a good deal more. terms it.

The New Orleans Delta states that Captain O'Hara, of the United States Army, has tendered his resignation, in order to join Gen. Walker, in Nicarag at the first opportunity. This individual, says the Philadelphia News, whatever may be his failings or delinquencies, is a brave, vigilant, and intelligent officer, and probably one of the ablest recruits Walker has recently received. He has served in Cuba and Mexico, and on every occasion displayed an indomitable courage, which would render him valuable in such a position of affairs as exist at present in Nicaragua. We trust that Walker will duly appreciate so gallant and accomplished

THE HOG MARKET .- Very few hogs are arriving, and hence there is little doing. We notice a sale of 300 head from the hooks, averaging 175 lbs, at $5 85, 300 head on foot, averaging 175 lbs, at $6 00, 400 der of great experience, proverbial for carefulness head at $6 25, and 400 head at $6 35, but the last and politeness, and Mr. Field, the clerk, travelers named price is an outside quotation. Nothing doing in the product, except the sale of 300 tierces lard at Hull, Hunt & Co. had killed up to last evening 41,588 head. At Bowling Green, up to Tuesday last, Quigley & Co. had killed 7,000 head, and F. F. Lucas 2,500 head, and the former firm expected to kill the regular packet for Memphis. The N. affords 11,000 more. Quigley & Co. were paying $5 00 net for heavy hogs.

RELEASED AND REARRESTED .- David Preston who has been in jail on a charge of passing counterfeit money, was yesterday bailed out, but was immediately rearrested to answer a requisition from the Governor of Illinois. Preston is the man who had a large amount of counterfeit notes on the Rockville (Conn.) Bank and on the Farmers' Bank of Kentucky in his possession, some of which he had MYSTERIOUS DISAPPEARANCE. - Much anxiety has been excited within the last two days in regard to the myster us disappearance of Dr. Baum, an old and well-known citizen. > [For the Louisville Journal.] THE RENUNCIATION.

Long have I looked for this_my dreams_my dreams! Oh, God! how wildly glorious they were! Immensity's bright myriads of stars, Its sunsets with their gold and crimson dyes, Its rainbows luring with their lovely light, Its lightnings burning on the blackened clouds, Its comets crushing worlds along their paths And its wild wind-lyres with their viewless chords, All, all its loveliness and majesty
Were nothing to the thoughts of one high heart!

Long have I looked for this-my dreams-my dream With what a vainly deep devotedness
My idolizing spirit's weary wings
Have striven to guard them when mysterious bells Tolled warnings on the agitated air And deep'ning darkness with its startling shades Cast warnings from the misty clouds of fate! How strong, how wonderful must be that power Which aims at Genius throned above the stars And, with one shaft, brings pride down to the dust!

Long have I looked for this-my dreams-my dreams They've been my light, my life, my hope, my heave An angel's words would strive in vain to tell, An angel's mind would strive in vain to paint, The glory and the beauty of my dreams! Yet I—renounce them—Oh! my worshipped dreams! They're faded, they are blasted, they are cold! My rifled heart is closing heavily, My spirit's once wild waves are stilled at last, My pride is—fettered! and my life is aimless!

Long have I looked for this-my dreams-my dream Oh, God! how wildly glorious they were! Immensity's bright myriads of stars, Its sunsets with their gold and crimson dyes, Its rainbows luring with their lovely light, Its lightnings burning on the blackened clouds, Its comets crushing worlds along their path, And its wild wind-lyres with their viewless chords, All, all its loveliness and mystery
Were nothing to the thoughts of one high heart!

We have mentioned the murder of a man named Cruise, at New Orleans. As a procession was returning from his funeral, and when in the neighborhood of Cruise's former residence, it was fired into, and an instantaneous attack followed by those composing the procession. An Irishman named Richard H, Blagger was killed and three or four men were wounded.

A Neapolitan correspondent, alluding to the threatened interference of the Western Powers, says: "They have been playing ghost to baby, and baby is not frightened." This undoubtedly tells the whole tale with as much truth as vividness. It tells the whole tale with a slight omission; "baby" is not frightened but "ghost" is.

We learn from the Baton Rouge (La.) Gazette that on Monday last, Chas. Wise and Mrs. Mary A. Wilson were tried on the charge of stealing two slaves and attempting to run them off to the North. Wise was convicted, but the jury had not yet rendered a verdict in the case of Mrs. Wilson.

The stock of pork at the New Orleans inspec tion warehouses on the 1st was 432 bbls., at the same time in 1855 it was 1730 bbls., and at the same time in 1854 none. The stock of beef on the 1st was 1480 bbls. against 1939 same time last year.

A new trial has been granted to H. M. True, at Memphis, who was convicted of fraud in the Arkansas Slate Company.

The Thibadeaux (La.) Minerva says that the sugar crop making in that parish is of a superior quality, but that the yield is very small.

Officer Powell arrested yesterday a man named Geo. Baggs, who is accused of stealing a watch from a coffee-house keeper on Third street.

RIVER AND STEAMBOAT MATTERS.

The river was still rising last evening with 3 feet 8 inches water in the chute on the falls. The Hiawatha had not got off the falls last night.

Our Pittsburg dispatch reports 4 feet 5 inches was ter in the channel and rising. This is not en-

Telegraph No. 3 .- This great steamer has again taken her place in the Cincinnati mail line. She leaves at 12 o'clock punctually. The Telegraph has been newly painted and furnished, and is now as good as new. She and her compeer, the Jacob Strader, are the greatest passenger boats afloat above the falls. The Telegraph will continue under the command of Capt. Hildreth, who is as widely known in the trade as he is popular. Mr. Byington, a model of a clerk, and who has filled that office in the mail line for many years, presides at the desk.

The Emma Dean leaves for Carrollton to-day, and the Endeavor. Latrobe, and Arcola are up for Pitts-

For New Orleans .- The Fanny Bullitt, Capt. Dunham, leaves for New Orleans this evening. The Fanny is an admiriable boat, has fine and well furnished cabins and state-rooms, and provides for passengers sumptuously. Capt. Dunham is a commanwill find an attentive and courteous gentleman.

The elegant new steamer Ailce Vivian leaves for New Orleans and Mobile and the Milton Relf and the John Briggs, also new boats, leave for New Orleans. The Relf starts from the city wharf.

The splendid steamer Northerner, Capt. Smith, is fine accommodations. Mr. Archer, her attentive clerk, has our thanks for late Memphis papers and copies of the manifest and memorandum.

The Diamod, having been unavoidably detained, leaves for Evansville this afternoon. The Wm. Dickson leaves for the Tennessee river. The W. A. Eaves and the H. Bridges leave for Green river, and the Fairy Queen for Nashville.

The St. Louis News of Thursday evening says:

The floating ice with which the river has been filled since Saturday last, has entirely disappeared, and not one particle is to be seen either here or at points above. Navigation has been resumed in all the upper rivers, and hoats will leave for the Missouri, Illinois, and upper Mississippi this evening. The Wm. Campbell leaves for the Missouri river this atternoon, the Kate French, Regulator, and Louisville for the upper Mississippi. The water has been falling rapidly since Saturday, and during that time has fallen for each this point. This morning it was about stationary; the recent rains that have fallen here and at points above have materially checked its downward tendency. The Montank and Regulator arrived from the upper Mississippi this morning, and both boats report rain all along the river during the past forty-eight hours, and from Clarkaville down the river had commenced rising. The St. Louis News of Thursday evening says:

FIRE AT HASTINGS, MINNESOTA.-A destructive fire occurred at Hastings, Minnesota, a short time since. One entire block, consisting of eight buildings, was consumed before the fire could be cgecked.

INTERESTING FROM WASHINGTON-Proceedings of Congress and the Southern Convention on Thursday-Removal of Judge Lecompte of Kansas and Appoint-ment of a Kentuckian, &c.—The National telegraph line was not working on Thursday, and we did therefore not receive any Washington news. We find the following in the Cleveland Herald. The Mr. Harrison, of Kentucky, nominated by the President for Judge of Kansas, is doubtless James O. Harrison, of Lexington:

THIRTY-FOURTH CONGRESS-SECOND SESSION Thursday's Proceedings.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11. Seaate.—In the Senate, to-day, Mr. Mason presented the petition of Mr. Wheeler, asking to be reimbursed for money advanced American citizens in distress in Nicaragua, and who on the route from California to New York were fired on by the natives of Virgin Bay, some being killed and others robbed. They were brought to the U. S. Legation hungry, wounded, and almost dead. Should this petition be granted, similar claims to an enormous amount are granted, similar claims to an enormous amount are ready for presentation.

Com. Jones also petitioned to be refunded the sum deducted from his pay by action of the court martial deducted from his pay by action of the court martial several years ago.

Mr. Cass made a speech in vindication of the President's message, and the Senate then adjourned.

House.—Mr. Otero presented a petition from the citizens of the Gadsden purchase, asking for the erection of the Territorial Government of Arrizona.

Mr. Humphrey Marshall made a noble speech, criticizing the Democratic professions and practices.

SOUTHERN COMMERCIAL CONVENTION. SAVANNAH, December 10.

Mr. Goulding's resolution relative to the reopening of the slave trade was discussed.

Mr. Spratt, the editor of the Charleston Standard, avowed himself in favor of the renewal of that traffic The convention, he said, should not acknowledge the right of Congress to impose restrictions upon the slave trade. It should meet the question at

Mr. Hunter, of Va., thought the South should ponder long before the despised opinion of the Chris-tian world. The recent message of the Governor of South Carolina had astonished the whole South, and he could not endorse that message. The subject was one involving tremendous consequences, and time for

Mr. Goulding of Georgia defended the policy of the revival of the slave trade. Slavery, he said, was derived from God, and he was ready to defend was derived from God, and he was ready to defend it in all its bearings.

The question was discussed by other gentlemen, including Mr. McLeod, of Texas, who pledged his State to the extremest pro-slavery measures.

The motion to take up Mr. Swan's resolution was lost. South Carolina, Texas, and a part of Tennessee only voting affirmatively. Resolutions were then reported relative to the Pacific Railroad, declaring first, that the Federal Government has the rower to

There will be an effort made this winter to impeach a Judge of the District Court of the U.S., and the charges, if substantiated, will cause a profound sensation throughout country. The memorials, I believe, are already before the proper committee.

There is a rumore that the slavery agitation will be again thrust upon Congress in connection with a bill for the admission of Utah as a State.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12. It is understood that another Pacific railroad bill is about to be introduced in the House. It is on a magnificent scale, and is entitled "A bill to provide for the construction of a railroad and telegraphic communication from the Misslssippi river and Lake Superior to the Pacific ocean." Three main roads are projected, viz: One from a point on the Mississippi river south of 35 to San Frrancisco, with a debauch to San Diego. Another from some point on the Missouri river north of lat. 40 and south of lat. 43 to San Francisco, with a branch to Marysville, Sacramento, Stockton, and San Jose. The third from some point on Lake Superior to Pugets Sound, with a branch to the mouth of the Williamette river. To each of these routes the bill propose to grant 30 It is understood that another Pacific railroad bill is with a branch to the mouth of the Williamette river. To each of these routes the bill propose to grant 30 sections of land for each mile of railroad, the land to be selected by parties named in the bill from the nearest unappropriated vacant lands of the United States, which shall be withdrawn from sale or entry or pre-emption, and, if required, shall be surveyed under the direction of the Secretary of the Interior; provided the parties named in the bill shall not be compelled to take any waste lands and shall pay to the United States 25 cents per acre; provided also, that no title shall rest in them any faster than the roads are extended to completion. Further, they roads are extended to completion. Further, they shall deposit with the Secretary of the Interior, within six months after the passage of this act, $200,000 in good United States or State Securities $200,000 in good United States or State Securities as a guarantee that one hundred miles of each must be completed within eighteen months from the time of the establishment of the routes. When said hundred miles are ready for the track the Secretary of the Interior shall allow the parties named the use of said $200,000 to purchase from therefor, and in lian thereof take a first mortgage bond on the road lieu thereof take a first mortgage bond on the road for that amount to be held until the entire line is Under the bill the United States are to pay $300 per mile for the transportation of the mails until the completion of the road, and for ten years thereafter. Also, for the transportation of troops and munitions of war such reasonable sum as the President and Secretary of War may determine. If the parties fail to build the lines within ten years from the date of their location, all right to the land not at that time paid for shall be forfeited to the United States. The right of way to the width of four hundred feet through the public lands is proposed to be granted. Further, six sections of land per mile is proposed to be granted to the following roads, under the restriction that any amount heretofore granted to the States where they are located for their use and beneits, shall be deducted therefrom, viz: The Southwestern branch Under the bill the United States are to pay $300 be deducted therefrom, viz: The Southwestern branch of the Pacific Railroad, the Iron Mountain Railroad. of the Pacific Railroad, the Iron Mountain Railroad, the Cairo and Fulton Railroad, the Memphis and Little Rock Railroad, the Mississippi, Red River and Washita Railroad, the New Orleans, Opelousas and Great Western Railroad, connecting with the first named routes of the Pacific Railroad; the Hannibal and St. Joseph's Railroad, the Burlington, Keosau-qua and Missouri Railroad, the Philadelphia, Fort Wayne and Platte Valley Railroad, the Mississippi and Missouri Railroad, the Mississippi and Missouri Railroad, the Iowa Central Air-Line Railroad, the Dubuque and Pacific Railroad, the North Iowa, Minnesota and Nebraska Railroad connecting with the second parend parend North Iowa, Minnesota and Nebraska Railroad connecting with the second named route of the Transit Railroad, and the North Iowa, Nebraska and Minnesota Railroad connecting with the third named route. Each of these proposed grants is under the proviso that fifty miles of road must be completed within three years after the passage of this act, and the balance within five years thereafter. The United States mails shall be carried at the usual prices for such services. Further provisions make it the duty of the companies named to construct their roads, &c., in a good substantial manner, with a uniform guage. All the property of said companies in the Territories is to be exempt from taxation as long as they are territories. None of them shall construct their roads through the lands of any Indian tribes without the consent of said tribes. They must sell and convey half of the lands granted within five years, and the balance within ten years from the issuing of the patent from the United States, and all land not sold at the expiration of ten years shall be forfeited to the United States. NEGRO INSURRECTION .- The Clarksville (Tenn.) Jeffersonian of Wednesday says:

The excitement in regard to the negroes has in a great measure sub-ided. The Vigilance Committe have been laboriously engaged the greater part of the week, examin-ing those implicated, and in some instances have inflicted well descryed casigation upon parties implicated. The report of the execution of the four negroes at Dover, mentioned in our last, was premature, though since that time six have been hung at Dover, and one at Dover Fur-mere.

the whole world would ultimately be free.

Mr. Baker, of Alabama, replied, and contrasted the condition of society North and South. He drew a conclusion in favor of the latter and hoped slavery would always exist.

The resclutions were rejected by a vote of 24 to 61, Alabama, South Carolina, and Texas voting in the affirmative.

Various resolutions were reported in favor of mail contracts to the North and South American Steamship Company—the establishment of founderies for castling cannon and small arms—recommending organizations to promote Southern emigration to Kansus—inquiring whether a due proportion of arms and munitions of war belonging to the Government were in the Southern arsenals—asking Congress to put the Southern harbors in a state of defence—sympathising with the democratic movements in Central America and the introduction of slavery there. SATURDAY EVENING, DEC. 13, 1856.

THE COURT OF CLAIMS .- One of the earliest and most pressing subjects for the action of Congress at its present session is the court of claims. This tribunal was created two years ago to meet the urgent demands of justice both on the part of the Government and of the claimants against it. Long experience had shown that Congress was too pre-occupied and unwieldy a body to dispose of private claims with fairness and dispatch, and the judgments of all varieties of public men concurred in the propriety and necessity of establishing a court exclusively for this object. The present court of claims was accordingly established. It, however, has fallen sadly short of its purpose, mainly or wholly through a glaring defect in its constitution, by which its decisions were not made final but subjected to review and confirmation or reversal by Congress, thus engrafting upon the court the identical evils for whose correction it was established. We called attention to this defect pending the last session of Congress, and predicted then, that, unless speedily remedied, it would not only destroy the usefulness of the court, but render it an intolerable aggravation of the grievances it was designed to remove. Subsequent experience has tended strongly to confirm this opinion. The court has discharged its duties faithfully and ably, but its decisions remain as empty and impotent as shadows, and will remain so until the action of Congress gives them substance and vitality. That action has not been taken, and heaven only knows when it will be, many insisting that Congress has no right to review the determinations of the court at all, and others insisting with equal zeal that it has the right and should exercise it freely. In the meantime, as we have intimated, not a dollar has been appropriated to give effect to the decisions of the court, and the creditors of the Government, with a decision in their favor by its own chosen tribunals staring them in the face, are still compelled to submit to an indefinite postponement of their rights. This is neither just nor wise. It is hardly decent. We hope that Congress will turn its attention promptly to this important subject, and, either by amending the law establishing the court or by some other effective mode, rectify this vast and daily accumulating mass of wrong, and make its recurrence impossible. The evil is immense and acknowledged, and the remedy is not difficult. It is due to the dignity of Congress not less than to the great interests of justice.

ADVENTURES IN THE WILDS OF AMERICA .- By Charles Lanman. John W. Moore, Philadelphia, 1856: 2 vols., illustrated. Mr. Lanman, the author of "Essays for Summer Hours," "Private Life of Daniel Webster," &c., is one of the most experienced tourists and sportsmen in the country. His sketches of sporting adventures have been extensively read with eager interest. Possessing admirable descriptive powers, a lively fancy, and a keen appreciation for the beautiful, the romantic, and the genuine pleasures of woodcraft, and withal a happy, easy, flowing, and discursive style of writing, he has given to his narratives a life-like interest, and the reader feels, while perusing them, as if he were beside the author enjoying the sports and scenes and adventures which are so graphically described. These volumes are a collection of his narrative and descriptive writings, which have from time to time afforded much gratification to the readers of the journals in which they were first published. A number of them have appeared as Editorial Essays in the National Intelligencer. The book will be read with pleasure. It is the only publication which presents in one view so much of the scenery and wild sports of the various portions of the United States and the British Provinces from the Capes of Florida to the Bay of Funda. The work is elegantly illustrated by the author and Oscar Bessau, and contains an appendix by Lieut. Campbell Hardy, of H. B. M. Royal Artillery.

Rev. G. W. Smiley will preach in Schon Chapel to-morrow at 11 A. M. and 31/2 P. M.

The following is from a London letter in the ew York Tribune:

Mormonism is on the decrease in England since a tithe is exacted by their spiritual leader? "for the use of the Saints at Great Sail Lake." The English, as matter-of-fact people, refuse to be taxed for foreign countries, even though they are deluded by such decirines as the "Saints" are greaching among them.

they are deluded by such doctrines as the "Saints" are oreaching among them.

The Kussian Railway scheme, and even the Steam Navigation Company in the Black Sea and Mediterranean, meet with such heeility in England that their failure is all but certain. France has no capital to spare, and Germany has no courage to patronize an undertaking unpopular at London and decried as unsafe. In spite of the names of Percere, Hottinguer, Baring, and Hope, the advantages offered by Rassia are not sufficiently attractive bait for the Western capitalists, and the magnificent plan of the Czar to have she military reads built by continental Europe and England is declined to utterly fail.

A large manufacturing house in the paper line at Liege, in Belgium, makes use of the four of horse-chestnuts and of acorns in making paper, as I see from a short notice in the Vienna Ost Deutsche Post.

Rothschild's new contract with the Bank of France to supply gold to the amount of two hundred and eighty millions of francs within one year, in equal monthly installments, has not alarmed the Exchange, since it will regularize the export of gold to Paris, and may establish such a degree of credit and confidence throughout France as to enable the French Bank Directors to dispense with further supplies. During the last two years gold to the amount of thirty-eight millions sterling has been bought for the French Bank, and of course a nearly equal amount of sixty-eight millions sterling has been bought for the French Bank, and of course a nearly equal amount of shirty-eight millions sterling has been bought for the French Bank, and of course a nearly equal amount of shirty-eight millions sterling has been bought for the French Bank, and of course a nearly equal amount of shirty-eight millions sterling has been bought for the French Bank, and of course a nearly equal amount of shirty-eight millions sterling has been bought for the French Bank, and of course a nearly equal amount of shirty-eight millions sterling has been bought for the French Bank,

Pursuit of Knowledge under Difficulties. The following is a most remarkable and praiseworthy instance of what perseverance and industry, rightly directed, are able to effect: Among the graduating class at the last commencement at Williams, uating class at the last commencement at Williams College was one by the name of Conditsfrom Jersey The gentleman is a shoemaker, married, and has a family of four children. Six years ago, becoming sensible of the blessings of an education, he commenced learning the simple branches, such as are taught in our primary schools. One by one, as he sat on his shoemaker's bench, he mastered grammar, arithmetic, geography, &c., with some occasional assistance from his fellow-workmen. At this time he determined to obtain a collegiate education. Withbe determined to obtain a collegiate education. Without means and with a large family depending on him for support, he commenced and learned Latin and Greek, in the evenings, after his day's labor was over, under the direction of a friend; and, after the lapse of a year and a half, prepared himself and entered the sophomore class at Williams College.

He brought his bench and tools as well as his books with him. The students supplied him with work.

with him. The students supplied him with the faculty assisted him; and with the fund for the faculty assisted him; and with the rund for indi-gent students and some occasional assistance from other sources, he was enabled to go through the col-lege course and at the same time support his family. He graduated on his birth-day, aged thirty-two. He stood high in his class and received a part at commencement, but declined. At the farewell meet-ing of his class, in consideration of his perseverance, talents, and Christian character, they presented him with an elegant set of silver spoons, tea and table, each handsomely engraved with an appropriate in-scription.

Mr. Condit will now enter the theological seminary at New York, and will, no doubt, make a faithful and popular minister.

What young man in this country will ever, after such an example as this, despair of obtaining an education?—Springfield Republican.

ANOTHER PROVERS GONE .- Many of our read. rs will recall the sad havoc which Bulwer, in his last rovel, made with the aphorism of Bacon, "knowledge is power." Lord Palmerston, in his speech at Manchester during his late ovation, thus admirably demolishes the famous maxim of Pope:

A PEEP AT ENGLISH DOMESTIC LIFE.-We find in the Washington (N. C.) Journal the following extract from a letter written by one of the officers of the United States steam frigate Merrimac, dated outhampton, October 8:

the United States steam frigate Merrimac, dated Southampton, October 8:

We have been visited a great deal here, especially by nay men, and have created something of an excitement in the naval world, judging by the pieces in the papers. Much attention has been paid us ashore, too, especially by two families—one that of an old East India general, the other that of Lord Hardwicke. Gen. Frazier has passed most of his life in India, and now lives in ease and comfort on the Southampton Water. At a dinner at his house we had an opportunity of seeing how the aristocracy live here. Lord Hardwicke and family and several other guests were there to meet us, and everything was in splendid style. One turbaned Indian, with several other servants, waited at table. The plate was superly, and the dinner the most recherche. We sat down to the table at half past seven. These are siways epaulets and sword occasions.

Lord Hardwicke's family consists of his countess, his eldest on (shout 18 or 20, and Lord Royston by courteey), three of the finest looking daughters you ever saw, and several younger sons. The daughters—Lady Elizabeth, Lady Mary, and Lady Agnita—are surpassingly beautiful; such development, such rosy checks, laughing eves, and unaffected manners you rarely see combined. They take a great dead of out-door exercise, and came aboard the Merrimac in a heavy rain, with Irish thicker-soled shoes than you or I ever wore, and cloaks and dresses almost impervious towater. They steer their father's yacht, walk the Lord knows how many miles, and don't care a cent about rain; besides doing a host of other things that would shock our ladies to death; and yet in the parlor are the most elegant-looking women in their satin shoes and diamonds I ever saw.

The Countess, in her coronact of jewels, is an elegant lady, and looks like a fit mother for three such women. His Lordship has given us three or four dinners. He lives here merely during the yachting season, and leaves on Friday for his country seat of Cambridge, where he spends h

The Provincetown Banner thus narrates the peculiarities of one of the canines:

The Dog THAT WOULDN'T EMIGRATE.—A short time since several families left Provincetown to locate in Essine several families left Provincetown to locate in Essine several families left Provincetown to locate in Essine to Boston, in a small schooner, the dog broke loose, leaped into the sea, and started on his long and weary passage home. He was seen and passed by one of our packets, near night, about five miles off Pace Point, and nine from this town, heading for the Race Light, nobly breasting the rolling waves, often covered by the spray.

The next morning, at an early hour, and before the family had arisen, Mr. James Doyle, to whom the dog was much attached, nearing an unusual noise at his door, arose, opened it, and was astonished to behold the noble fugitive. Mr. D. says when he opened the door the dog arose, placed his, giving such demonstrations of joy as he never believed any animal could exhibit.

In what part of the Bay he left his master, and the distance he must have swam, in a rough sea, it is not now known, but when seen he was five miles from land.

This is the fourth time an attempt has been made to carry off this dog, and in every instance he has managed to leave in his passage to Boston and return by swimming home. The hobie animal should now be adopted by the town, have the "freedom of the city," and a pension for life.

The following is an extract of a leter from St. Petersburg:

Petersburg:

The world is already acquainted with the mysterious and imaginary subterranean cavern of Camille, of Meloiphe, and of Miss Radeliff, but St. Petersburg has a veritable subterranean cavern, the entrance to which is by an elegant colonnade of the Ionic order. Imagine two or three subterranean caves united, the walls of which are black with smoke. The thick vapors issuing from their depths are increased by the emissions of funeral-looking lamps, and by enormous fires at the mouth, which look like the crater of Vesuvius. We look forward to a space without apparent bounds or limits, so great is the obscurity. This grand cavern is the general resort of the lazzaroni of St. Petersburg, and of peasants and other individuals of the laboring class, who spend here their nights. The porter, who is a sort of modern Charon to these lower shades, receives a piece of copper from each one who enters. Having entered, it is not difficult to find a place of repose. But the bedy the covering? The Russian peasant carries with him his own.

In our wanderings, we come into view of a vast palace, adorned with gardens and spacious courts. Its inscription denotes it to be an hospital. What magnificence amidst such a people! The unfortunate are not only respected; they are cared for. In many celebrated hospitals in other countries the sick are laid together in the same bed, and placed in apartments without air and without cleanliness. In St. Petersburg, the sick enjoy luxuries and have resources which are denied in other countries and have resources which are denied in other countries are waited upon by physicians whose salaries are paid by the public treasury. Other palaces offer themselves to the view—houses of benevolence, education, public instruction. From the orphan, and the infant abandoned by its mother, which does not possess in the world enough to cover it, to the cld man who waits his last hour—all have an asylum opened to their distress and their infirmities. The spectacle of so many resources in so young a city a

ASA WHITNEY BECOMING A SUGAR PLANTER—
Profits of Raising Sugar Millet.—Mr. Asa Whitney, the originator of the great Pacific Railroad scheme, is extensively engaged in the milk business in this city. He lives a few miles out, keeps about fifty cows, and supplies Washington people with milk. He looks like a plain farmer, and talks like a statesman—especially when you broach his favorite subject of the railroad. He thinks the road cannot now be built. One of his reasons is that the matter has got to be a political one, and what one administration or party does the other will endeavor to undo. Another is, that the lands are not so easily to be obtained now as when he first proposed the subject, [Washington Correspondence of the Tribune.] Another 18, that the lands are not so easily to be obtained now as when he first proposed the subject, and that it will cost immensely more. Mr. Whitney raised upon his place, this year, 100 bushels of the seed of Chinese sugar-cane, for which the commissioner of patents paid him $5 per bushel. The seed

While on this subject I would mention that the Secretary of each State Agricultural Societary will be supplied with a bushel of sugar-cane seed for distribution among the farmers who will fairly test it, and produce seed for the future use of the State.

The Residence of F. P. Blair.—By the way, Blair has the most charming retreat in the vicinity of this city. His spring is a curiosity, and he applies it to many purposes. By means of a sheet-iron wheel, forty feet in diameter, made by Page, of Baltimore, it grinds, threshes, and churns—supplies his dairy and stables—his jet d'eau and gardens—irrigates his meadows—and pours a stream of cold water through every room of his house. His grounds are in the highest state of cultivation.—Wash. Cor. N. O. Delta.

He is also the bearer of five decorations, one of which is intended for Count Walewski.

NOT ALL GONE YET!

In order to prevent any impression in the community that might arise in reference to our recent loss of Silks by robbery, "that we have no Silks left," we take pleasure in saying to our customers and the trading community generally, that we still have the finest assortment of fancy Silks and elegant Flounced Robest to be found in the city, as well as quite a line of plain black Silks, which we will continue to sell at our usually low prices, and solicit the early calls of all. In a few days we will have our stock fully replenished with every grade of black and solid colored Silks, when our friends will find it to their advantage to call on us. We are now offering to the public the largest and best selected stock of Dry Goods and Carpets ever brought to this city, and, what is still better for those wishing anything in our line, we are selling them much cheaper than any of our competitors. COAL .- Two boats of Kanawha coal, containing 7,000 bushels, reached here this morning. It was purchased by two dealers at 20 cents, who are retailing it at 25 cents. Drave & Son will be in receipt of six barges of Pittsburg coal to-morrow morning, and Mr. Robb expects to have another tow of Pomeroy coal on Monday morning.

The river has commenced falling. It has receded only about an inch. The late rise at Cincinnati has not yet reached here. The steamer Hiawatha is still aground on the falls, with her bow aground and her stern afloat.

According to our Pittsburg report to-day, the river must have fallen since last night and then com-

KANAWHA SALT .- We learn from the agents here that the receipts of Kanawha salt have been quite large during the last few days, and the supply is now ample. It is selling at 45 and 48 cents.

The Lexington Observer quotes sales from the pork-house in that city, of 20,000 shoulders and hams, out of salt, at 51/2 and 73/4c. delivered at Covington, and 5,000 shoulders out of salt on the spot at 51/2e. A hog weighing 960 pounds was slaughtered there on Thursday.

SOUTHERN COMMERCIAL CONVENTION. SAVANNAH, Dec. 12.

The Convention was occupied from 7 till 9 o'clock The Convention was occupied from 7 till 9 o'clock this evening on a motion to reconsider the vote on the Pacific Railroad resolution of to-day with the view of offering resolutions in substance declaring that Congress has power to make roads in Territories but not in States. On motion it was tabled. The vote on the resolution re-opening the slave trade was explained by an amendment that said vote was not actuated by a feeling of deference to the North. On motion a vote of thanks was returned to railroad companies for free passes to the Convention. Adjourned sine die.

SARAH PERCIVAL;

THE BRIDE OF THE "HOUSE OF GOLD."

BY MRS. CAROLINE INGRAHAM.

The home, under the shelter of whose roof these first dreams of Sarah Percival were dreamed, was a humble one enough. It was a small wooden tenement, on a narrow and dirty street, owned and inhabited by a cleanly old Scotch woman, who had been a servant in the house of Mr. Richard Percival's father in her younger days. She was greatly rejoiced at the young girl's unexpected advent, and bustled around to make her guest comfortable, talking all the while of Mr. Richard and Mr. Frank in a way that brought tears to her listener's eyes. It seemed so strange to hear this woman, tottering on the verge of the grave, relating little anecdotes of the boyish days of the two brothers who had gone before her; and Sarah's heart warmed towards her as she told how brave and generous and impulsive her own father was in his youth.

"Mr. Richard was more quiet and cautious, and Mr. Frank forever in disgrace," said the old lady, warmly; "but for all that, he had a smile that would do your heart good, and a way with him that would charm a bird from a tree."

"Mrs. Bryce, do I look like my father?" asked

Sarah, suddenly.

The good woman turned and looked at her quietly with her clear, gray eyes.
"Na, na!" she said, shaking her head and flavor-"Na, na! she said, shaking her head and flavoring her speech with a strong reminiscence of her native dialect, "ye have a blink of your ee like him, but your face is like your mither's, my bairn."

"Did you know my mother?" asked Sarah, eager-

Mrs. Bryce's face grew serious.

Mrs. Bryce's face grew serious.

"Yes, I knew her. She was a grand lady."

"English, was she not?"

"On the mother's side she was, but by the father she came of as good Scotch blood as ever crossed the border."

"Mrs. Bryce," said Sarah, thoughtfully, "do you think my mother ever loved my father? Mrs. Percival told me she did not; but then she never saw her. You knew her well; now tell me what you think about it."

The face of the Scotchwoman flushed vividly.
"Mrs. Pereival! What could she tell you?" she exclaimed, angrily. "And yet what could she not! Bairn, there is more evil in this world than you have ever dreamed of. Little that woman would have dreamed of sending you to me, if she had known what I know."
"Tell me."

"Promise me first that you will not speak of it to her till the time comes. I will tell you then."
"Yes, I promise," said Sarah, impatiently; "and I am never going to her again, so it can make lit-

"Well, my bairn, that woman loved your father once. He never knew it—no one knew it but a confidential servant of hers, who was privy to the plot. But Mr. Frank never cared for her. And plot. But Mr. Frank never cared for her. And when he went to Europe she married Mr. Richard out of pure vexation. When the news came of Mr. Frank's marriage, she was in a dreadful way. Your mother, my bairn, was of a high family, and a wealthy one. They were all angry when she married your father; but when she left him all was forgiven. The matter was hushed up, and after his death she married again."

given. The matter was hushed up, and after his death she married again."

"She did not love him then?" said Sarah, sadly. She had been accustomed to invest this unseen mother with every possible perfection. And to be told that she was cold, and false, and heartless, was a that she was cold, and hase, and heartless, was a bitter sting.

"Love!" said the Scotch woman, with a bitter emphasis. "My bairn, it was more than love—it was idolatry, and sinful I suppose. He was ten years younger than she, but no one would have dreamed idolatry, and sinful I suppose. He was ten years younger than she, but no one would have dreamed it to have seen them together. I saw them three or four times in Paris and once in London. It was before you were born, you know."

"Yes; but if she loved him so, how could she leave him? If she loved him so, how could she give me up? I was but a little child—so little as only to have a faint memory of her—when she went away."

"My bairn, there are some wrongs that will make a proud woman turn against the innecent child she has borne," said the old woman solemnly. "I wondered greatly at it myself, but I cannot now. Mr. Richard's wife, or rather Janet, her confidential servant, played her part well. She was a tall, lady-like girl, well furnished with money and fine clothes. She began by sending anonymous letters to Mrs. Frank, who would not show them to her husband. If she had done that, all might have been well. But she only brooded over them; and when Janet came to see her, with a little babe in her arms, and told her it was his bairn, it was enough. All the love she had felt for him seemed changed to hate. She left you both, with a bitter yow that she would never see you again. And so she has kept it, and Mrs. Richard's plan has succeeded."

Sarah listened in silence to this strange story.

Richard's plan has succeeded."

Sarah listened in silence to this strange sto

"But how did you know all this, Mrs. Bryce?" she asked, after a moment's pause.
"I was on the continent with a lady and saw your father and mother; and more than all that, I knew Janet. She died in my arms a year ago and told me all."

"You were a friends of hers, then?" The features of the Scotch woman worked con-vulsively, and she answered, with a burst of honest

The young girl was success." she said, soothing-careless question.

"Don't weep so, Mrs. Bryce," she said, soothing-ly; "I am very sorry to have pained you so."

"There—I am better now," said the woman wiping her eyes and smiling steadily. "It is best r for her that she has gone. There is not one in that other here try to lead be into woman, puir lammie! But recountry to lead her into wrong—puir lammie! But I will never forget or forgive those who did this wrong!" she added with a vehemence that sparkled in her usually placid eyes like fire.

"I mer usually placid eyes like fire.
"I must find my mother," murmured Sarah, laying her head down on the pillow, from which she had lifted it in the heat of conversation. "She will ove me when she knows all, and I need some one to care for me. Mrs. Bryce, tell me her maiden

"Margaret Clanmoran, my bairn."

"Margaret Chanmoran, my baurn."
"Margaret —Margaret—it is a beautiful name. I wish they had called me so."
"I am sure your own name is bonny enough," said Mrs. Bryce, kindly. "Now shut your eyes, my bairn, and go to sleep. I ken well I shall love you bairn, and go to sleep. I ken well I shall love you for the sake of yuir mither, who was so kind to puir Janet in spite of the way in which she came to her." With a kind good night, that might almost have been a mother's, so low and gentle was it, Mrs.

But all night long she was tossed to and fro upon a sea of dreams. Sometimes the fair, sad face of her mother swept before her, and then the gallant her mother swept before her, and then the ganant figure of the young sailor; and when at last the morning broke, and the first rays of the rising sun came stealing over the house-tops, and looked down into her little room, she awoke weary and unre-freshed, and conscious of a dull feeling of homesick-

DR. A. KING, a practitioner of New York for the last thirty years, has opened a Dispensary on Market, bet. First and Second, nearly opposite the Graham House, Louisville, for the treatment of Private Diseases, such as Gonornhea, Syphilis, and all diseases of the skin and other derangements growing out of neglet or imperfect cure. His long experience and success enable him to act with confidence. All those who may confide their cases to him may rest assured of having the disease effectually cured and every vestige of the difficulties perfectly eradicated from their constitutions.

STRICTURES of old or recent date effectually cured in few days by an operation which causes no pain. Where a stricture exists, general derangement of the whole constitution must ensue, a continuance of which will bring on train of symptoms to be dreaded, and will undermine the constitution and cause premature old age.

SEMINAL WEANESS.—Particular attention will be given to this disease and all the consequences growing out of it, brought on, in many cases, by the destructive habits of inconsiderate youth and excessive indulgence of the passions, which undermine the constitution, rendering the subject unfit for either business or society, and causing premature old age.

EF Persons abroad, by writing and stating their case, with a fee enclosed (post-paid), can have the medicine sent to their address, with necessary directions for using the same.
